

The cost of the whole conference is £40, one day can be booked at £25. This includes lunches and tea and coffee. Information on accommodation can be sent.

A booking form can be found on our web site at www.swansea.ac.uk/egypt. Alternatively fill in the form below and we can send you a booking form:

Please send me details of the conference:
‘The Exploited and the Adored’:
Animals in Ancient Egypt

Surname (print)

.....

Initials.....Mr/Mrs/Miss/Ms/Dr

Address (print)

.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....

.....Telephone number

.....

Send accommodation list.....

Send to:
Egypt Centre, University of Wales Swansea, Singleton
Park, Swansea, SA2 8PP (01792) 295960

A conference open to all
9th-10th December 2006

Egypt Centre
University of Wales Swansea
Singleton Park
Swansea SA2 8PP

Tel: 01792 295960

Web page www.swansea.ac.uk/egypt

THE
EGYPT CENTRE
Conference 2006

‘The Exploited and the Adored’:
Animals in Ancient Egypt

A conference open to all
9th-10th December 2006

Tel: 01792 295960

'The Exploited and the Adored' Animals in Ancient Egypt

The conference seeks to explore the role of the non-human animal in Egypt from ancient times up to and including the Islamic Period.

Themes include: defining and categorising the animal; the relationship between people and other animals; the influence of animals upon Egyptian society and religion; modern constructions of animals in ancient Egypt.

The conference will be open to all and aims to encourage research into the role of animals in ancient Egypt as well as to increase public awareness of issues.

Speakers:

Abstracts can be found on our web site:
www.swansea.ac.uk/egypt/events/Conference%202006/conference2006.htm

Housni Alkhateeb-Shehada (Tel Aviv University)
Ménageries in Medieval Egypt

Benjamin Arbel (Tel Aviv University)
The Egypt's Animals observed by Renaissance Travellers

Rozen Bailleul-LeSuer (Chicago University)
Diachronic Study of Bird Representations in Marsh Scenes

Miriam Bibby (University of Manchester)
*'They shall henceforth be fed in my presence':
Horse care, training and management in ancient Egypt*

Terence DuQuesne
A Profusion of Jackals: the role of sacred animals on New Kingdom votive stelae

Ruth Foster (Wilton High School, Connecticut)
The Treatment of Animals in Egypt from Pharaonic to Islamic Times

Simon Hawkins (University of Liverpool)
*Tales from the Riverbank':
The Use of Fish in Middle Egyptian Literature*

Harold Hays (Leiden University)
The Role of the Beast in Bloody Sacrifice

Alan Lloyd (Swansea University)
Herodotus on Animals in Egypt

Rita Lucarelli (Leiden University)
*Crocodiles of the Netherworld: Book of the Dead,
Chapter 32*

Christopher Lycett (University of Liverpool)
Cattle Management during the Pharaonic Period

Angela McDonald (University of Glasgow)
*The Crocodile Within the Shelter:
Animal Imagery and Human Emotions in the Egyptian
Determinative System*

Pauline Norris (Birmingham University)
The Horse as a Possession of the Elite

Michael Rice
Tjesm: Egypt's Golden Hound

Kasia Szpakowska (Swansea University)
Domestic Cults of the Snake in Ancient Egypt

Irene Vezzani (University of Florence)
Miwty

Hilary Wilson (University of Southampton)
*An ancient and modern symbol of regeneration:
The BultiFish*

John Wyatt
*Pharaoh's Birds:
The African Influences on the identification of additional species*